ADVERTISING

EVERY TIME A MAN OPENS HIS MOUTH--that is, if he gives voice to speech—he is Advertising. The quality and value of the advertising depends entirely upon the quality of the thought and purpose back of it. The character of the advertising expresses the character of the man and when we say man in this instance we mean mankind—humanity.

Advertising is publicity. Publicity, when properly handled is the greatest force in business today. The little child who has learned to talk, unthoughtedly gives expression to the workings of its mind. The child is unconsciously advertising its natural tendency and the publicity thus given often makes it possible to determine, or forecast, future activities of the child.

Parents who have given careful attention to the study of child tendency, may thus be guided in the matter of educational development in order to bring out that which is best in the child, in this manner enabling the child to grow into a life activity equipped to follow the vocation of life best suited to its own natural inclinations.

It has been said that "a man cannot play with ink without getting some of it on his fingers." This may be true, but we are willing to wager that unless a man has a natural inclination which enables him to get a special delight out of playing with ink, you may advertise the fact that he can have all the ink he wants to play with, free of charge, but he will never bother with it long enough to daub his fingers.

You get the idea—Advertising never makes a customer. You may advertise a commodity for years, but unless it is wanted there will be no sale. You cannot sell medicine to a well man, no matter how vigorously you may advertise it, because he does not need—does not want it and no amount of argument can convince him that he wants it. On the other hand, you can sell a sick man almost any kind of medicine, provided it is advertised to relieve his malady. The advertising does not make him a customer; he is already a customer—he wants relief. His trouble made him a customer but the advertising found him.

There is the whole secret of advertising. It does not make customers, but if there is a customer for the commodity offered for sale, advertising will find him just as surely as California will have rainy weather during the winter months.

The public, as a whole or in part, may want a commodity and not know it. Some scout for an enterprising concern may hit upon something the public wants, needs in fact, but is not yet aware of the need. If the concern is convinced that a need really exists, the manufacture of the article starts simultaneously with the advertising campaign. The article is a public want—or at least a want among a sufficient number of those composing the public to make its production profitable. They were customers and as soon as the advertising found them the sale was made; not because of the advertising, but because of the want which prompted the advertising and the article's manufacture.

Advertising is a salesman—the very best salesman in the world for while a human salesman can talk to only one possible customer at one time, advertising can talk to millions of them at the same minute in every country of the globe. But no saleman can sell everybody. Neither can advertising. Only where the want exists, or the need, can the sale be made. If a salesman gets one order from ten people canvassed, he is doing well. If advertising does the same, it is doing well. Advertising has the advantage because it can talk to all the people at one time while a salesman can only talk to one at a time.

There is a difference between local advertising and National advertising in-as-much as the commodities offered in a community are very largely the things needed in the community. Most local business concerns advertise in the local newspaper. If you should ask them what they advertise for, most of them will tell you the paper is a local enterprise, the editor a good fellow and they like to do a bit to help the sheet along. Some will say they do not have to advertise because everybody for miles around knows them.

Possibly no greater mistake could be made. While it may be true that everybody in the community today knows that John Jones sells groceries; tomorrow there may be a dozen or more families who do not even know that John Jones exists. Every community is kaleidoscopic--- never just the same twice. Each turn of the cylinder brings new forms into the circle. These are not more partial to John Jones than they are to Tom Thompson or Joe Johnson.

They are looking for a place to supply their wants. The local newspaper is almost invariably the source of information sought to direct the possessor of the wants to the place where they can be supplied. If they find that John Jones is represented in this public directory in a definite and attractive manner, why, John Jones is most likely to be the man selected to supply the wants. If all three dealers are represented, one offering the best service, the best goods for the prices asked etc.,as indicated by the advertising will most likely be the one chosen to supply the wants. The customer is already in existence. Advertising does not nake his need but it can and will direct him to where the need can be supplied in a satisfactory manner.

That is the sole purpose of advertising--- its mission in the world, and no advertising, no printed word, is without its value as a message to those who have wants to be supplied. It is not right to advertise in the local paper as a matter of charity. The local paper does not want charity. It is willing to work for what it gets and nothing that is willing to work should ever be classified as an object of charity.

The local paper considers itself a public servant—as is the president of the United States or any one in public office. It aims to give service and possibly no other institution---except the Public Schools---gives more service for the value received than does the local newspaper of any and every community.

NEWS AND COMMENT

There is more actual food value in the cheaper cuts of meats, but it is practically impossible to impress this upon the average person. Shopping is done with the palate uppermost.

A favorite American sport is the holding of conferences. We constantly are seeking subjects for desultory discussion by large groups. So often do such conferences prove fruitless, except to gratify the ambition of the lime light seekers, that as result-producers they generally are discredited.

Besides being the biggest tree on earth, the California redwood supplies one of the most durable of woods. The United States Coast and Geodec Survey, doing survey work in California, has found that stakes made of redwood set in 1874 are still in a fair state of preservation, after being in the ground forty-seven years.

A reader appeals to us for job of "sweeping sunshine off the roof or wheeling smoke out of the basement." Unfortunately we need to keep allthe sunshine on top for the benefit of the business men, and the basement consumes its own smoke. A good sunshine distributor can find a steady job for a long time to come in any city.

The County road workers have just completed gravelling a stretch of the Bear Creek road, so that the bus may be able to travel the road all winter.

A boom for Boulder Creek, Mr. Kernstein, a practical baker expects to open up the bakery with firstclass goods some time very soon. This is exactly what Boulder Creek has wished for. Now by the support we give, we can prove our appreciation of Mr. Kernstein's enterprise.

Mr. Horstman, the deputy sheriff, has been engaged by the business people of Boulder Creek to take care of their property at night.

PERSONALS

Mr. Gibbs has been very lucky in getting Mr. and Mrs. Sasias to manage the New Alpine Hotel. Their daughter Harriet is here with her parents.

Miss Ella Yeates from Los Gatos has come to Boulder Creek to take charge of the Bakery Store which is to be opened soon. Miss Yeats has traveled in Austrailia and other foreign countries. She will be a real addition to the town.

Mr. Nat Hamilton who has bought the Coffee Gem Restaurant has something to say this week to the readers of Community who like the best to eat.

Mr. and Mrs. Murk have moved into the Hageman cottage.

Nellie Blanche is the name of the new baby girl who arrived October 20 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Rollins.

Miss Lillian Hogan has arrived here from Ireland and will spend the winter with her sister Mrs. H. Rollins.

The building where Mr. Kernstein is to start the new bakery has been renovated and put in order for operation.

Our Improvement Club is steadily growing. This week, six new members have been added.

William Funge, Joe Funge, Art Woods, and Wallace Pearce motored to Santa Cruz Friday night in Rowland Hill's powerful Dueseunburg car.

RECEPTION GIVEN TO NEW M. E. MINISTER

The Rev. and Mrs. T. Leake and son John, were welcomed to Boulder Creek by a social held at the M. E. Church on Thursday evening of last week. The town community was well represented and the silhouettes of some of the absent business men who could not be present adorned the walls and one of the amusements was guessng the names of the persons represented by the silouhettes.

The program was under the direction of Mrs. Wicks. Mr. Wicks as spokesman introduced those on the program.

A. H. Townsend, from Ben Lomond, gave a reading and when encored gave an amusing account of how he learned that the congregation of the M.E.Church was pleased with Mr. Leake the new minister and his family.

Mrs. Rose Booth sang two songs that won great applause.

Mr. Scott and his Guitar were an attraction quite as popular.

Then followed several choruses by selected sides for which Mrs. Gordon was accompanist and Mr. Gordon judge.

Following this came games and fortune telling by Mrs. Horstman and later the pleasing and appetizing refreshments prepared by the ladies of the Church.

The evening's entertainment was very enjoyable and we are all pleased to welcome the Rev. Leake and family to the mountain town of Boulder Creek.

SEQUOIA ITEMS

Mr and Mrs. Frank Smith and son, formerly of Sequoia but now living in San Francisco, visited the Crawfords the fore part of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, Mr. and Mrs. "Chet" Culbertson, Miss Lucile Culbertson, Mr. Paul Rea and Mr. Davidson, all of San Jose and Miss Evelyn Stewart and Mr. La Verne Culbertson, of Santa Cruz spent Sunday last week at the Cahills.

The practical advertising value of displaying one's produce at local fairs was forcibly demonstrated in the case of Mr. Moncrief. Mr. Moncrief took a first and a second prize on apples at the recent Scotts Valley Fair. Since then he has been flooded with orders from those who wish a high quality of apples at a fair price.

FAREWELL PARTY

Mrs. Edith Smith, sister of Mrs. Ella Wood, is leaving for Sterling, Col. where she will spend the winter with her son. A farewell party was given in Mrs. Smith's honor, one evening last week by her Rebekah sisters and intimate friends. Those present were Mesdams Dool, Whitener, Lyon, Longley, W.B.Peery, Ella Wood, M. Stagg and Horstman.

A very pleasant evening was spent at the close of which very enticing refreshments were served.

NOTARY WORK—INSURANCE

AUTUMN TIME

—oOo—

Now again it is the time of harvest for the fruits of the great earth. There is also a harvest for the fruits of hearts and homes in Autumn. Friendships ripen in the fall; affections mellow. The casual relationships of less serious seasons become more definite, more deep, more dear.

The passing fancies that flit through the fairy-haze of Summer dreams are brought, by Autumn, into the candid light of the home-fires and, under the gentle warmth of hospitality at Autumn's tea-time, many vaguely sweet acquaintanceships of the long gypsy Summer are developed into friendships of enduring strength and charm.

So new friends are made, and the pledge of older friendships renewed, and, somehow, the windows of life seem opened to a warmer flood of human fellowship when it is Fall.

One feels an impulse for more gaiety in Autumn-time. It is more fun to entertain when once again you may have open fires and lamp-lit twilights, and those long evening hours of music, talking, books, and dreams with friends at Home.

And in the Autumn there are holidays to give excuse for merry-making and care-free festivity. There is the picturesque occasion of Hallowe'en—and there's Thanksgiving—and all the time, 'way down the road that leads through Autumn and around the turn of winter, there is yet another radiant Christmas waiting.

Truly when the days grow short and the nights grow long, Home draws its loved ones closer, and not its own alone but other folks as well, to share the peace and cheer and sweetness of the Winter's home-hours. Now there are frequent guests, and many, in the whole-souled sort of home.

May the harvest of your home this Autumn be abundant, and the riches of your heart be great.

BEN LOMOND NEWS

The Ben Lomond Improvement Club will hold its regular monthly meeting in the Club House Tuesday evening, November 1st. Members of the Boulder Creek Improvemeut Club are invited to be present at the meeting and it is planned to give as little time to the business session as possible after which a musical and literary program will be in order.

The San Lorenzo Farm Bureau Center, as per plans made a month ago, will hold its meeting for November in the Library at Boulder Creek at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon, November 1st. The December meeting will be held in Felton and the first meeting of the new year will held in Ben Lomond. If this plan works out as it now seems possible, meetings of the next year will be held alternately between the three towns, throughout the year.

Mrs. C. R. Spangler, from Grand Junction, Colorado, is visiting her brothers, Frank and J. M. Mc Cabe. She will remain in Ben Lomond for a week or more.

Miss Ruth Hunt is detained from her school in Oakland on account of the illness of her grandmother.

Mr. C. A. Bradshaw went to Oakland Tuesday returning the same day.

Mrs. E. L. Bonestell and granddaughter, Ruth Hunt came to Ben Lomond Saturday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bradshaw. Mrs. Bonestell is Mrs. Bradshaw's mother and Miss Hunt her daughter.

Mrs. R. T. Lyng made a hurried trip to San Francisco early in the week motoring up and back the same day.

Mr. John Cole and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood and son have been on a very interesting scenic trip in and about Eureka. Mrs. Wood is Mr. Cole's daughter and they are now at the Wisteria, the Cole home here, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. David Jones of San Francisco are visiting their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Jones. Also Mrs. Herbert O'Rhea of Berkeley— "Billy's" sister.

"AUNTIE WOOD" MARRIES LOVER OF HER YOUTH

The many friends of "Auntie Wood" who lived for a long time in Boulder Creek were surprised to read in the San Francisco Examiner of her intended marriage to an Old Sweetheart with special emphasis on the word "old." The article was headed, "Total Ages Only 179."

Beneath the photograph of the couple was the following:-

William Coburn, 90 and Mrs. Esther R. Wood, 89, who will celebrate a 63 year old romance with a marriage at the Sawtelle Soldiers' Home.

No announcement of the marriage has as yet been sent to Community but as the date of the wedding was set for October 17th, it is safe to say that Auntie Wood is now Mrs. Coburn and congratulations are in order from old friends here.

Coburn and his bride attended school together in Dakota county, Minn., which also was the home of the Rev. M. F. Kaufman, the officiating minister who is Chaplain of the Soldiers Home where Coburn has lived the last six years.

The youthful romance was interupted when Mr. Coburn joined the U.S. Army in the time of the Indian wars. His young sweetheart thinking him dead, married Mr. Wood who was later killed in the Civil war.

The Octogenarian lovers renewed the romance of their youth but the old adage of "true love never did run smoothly" applied in their case and the lovers delayed marriage until now. Both have children but the newly weds will live in a little bungalow surrounded with flowers, the dream of their youth.

The best wishes of their many friends go with them.
